STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

C. L. Barker, Esq., of Lewiston, who has just returned from New York market, relates a little over the prospect for cotton goods. He says that the Lewiston mill can be run on the very good. It was preparing when it shut down, and make money. It begins to look as if a local company will be formed to buy this property. It is a fine investment for somebody.

A shooting accident occurred in Auburn, Saturday afternoon. Alice Owen, daughter of E. M. Owen of the firm of Owen & Hall, was coming down the street near the Barker Mill district. She was met by a boy named Boomer, who produced a pistol from his pocket and deliberately pointed it at her face and fired. Happily the pistol was loaded with a blank cartridge, or the result would have been fatal. The ball was but a few feet from the girl when the cartridge exploded. The charge of the powder was blown into the face and eyes of the girl in a pitiful manner. Surgeons have been at work since the accident endeavoring to remove, so far as may be possible, the powder from the face. The girl is but twelve years of age. The boy Boomer is frantic with grief. His parents state that they did not know the pistol was loaded.

The Houlton Times learns that Rev. W. H. Williams has received an appointment as pastor of the M. E. Church in White Pigeon, Michigan, and intends leaving for his new field of labor early next week. Mr. Williams is an able man and a faithful pastor, and the East Maine Conference loses a valuable member.

As Charles Needham, an employe in Brown's furniture manufactory at North Bridgton was attempting to adjust one of the large belts, Saturday, his clothing became entangled in the pulley. He was caught between the revolving belt and the pulley and carried around the shaft, and was so firmly held that the belt had to be cut and the most of his clothing torn from him before he could be extricated from his sad plight. He was taken home and medical aid summoned. It was found that his body was badly bruised, but it is thought no bones are broken. At last accounts, the patient was doing as well as could be expected. Fortunately, they were running at that moment with low speed, in order to disengage the belt, else he must have been killed.

Kennebec.

At the State House is a description given by a surveyor of a lot of land now in Franklin county, in which there is not a punctuation point and more than half the letters are capitals. To judge from the spelling also, this was not among the requirements of a land surveyor of that time.

The Waterville city government held another meeting, Saturday evening, and elected the following additional officers: Truant officers, Frank W. Haskell, Joseph Percival, J. H. Mr. Nathan D. Haskell, of Stockton, fell from the yard arm of bark Edward Cushing, three days before the vessel's arrival at Philadelphia. His head struck against the corner of the forward house, and he died next day from his injuries. Mr. Haskell was mate of the bark, and he, together with most of the crew, was badly chilled from long exposure to the storm, which probably accounts for his not being able to keep his hold. He leaves a wife and two little girls.

The collection of the songs sung by the sailors of all nations at their work has been made by the daughter of the Russian consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne. She made the round of the English seaports for the purpose, and got the sailors to sing to her.

An easy way of selecting a cook is discovered by a French scientist. He says, if in cleaning a plate, the cook moves her hand from left to right, or in the direction of the hands of a watch, she may be trusted; if the other way, she is certain to be stupid and incapable. Centrifugal movements, he says, are characteristic of intelligence and higher development, centripetal are a mark of incomplete evolution.

In 1879, Harriet Hosmer, the dying sculptor, patented a method of masking artificial marble."

Gen. Sheridan's Horses.

THE ANIMALS THAT CARRIED HIM FAITHFULLY THROUGH THE WAR.

During the war Gen. Sheridan rode four horses. The animal which Buchanan Read immortalized was a large black gelding, with three white feet, which was presented to him at Rienzi, Miss., by the officers of the Second Michigan cavalry, of which he was then colonel. It was originally named "Rienzi," from the place at which the presentation was made, but after the famous twenty-mile ride the animal was re-christened "Winchester," and the name for that horse. It was his favorite saddle horse, and partook more of Sheridan's spirit than any other he ever bestrode. He chose it to use in battle, for the horse knew as well as his master what was required of him, and never flinched in danger or failed in fatigue. Several times he was wounded—having received a bullet in each of his fore-shoulders—and was badly torn under his haunches by the explosion of a shell. This horse was ridden in the famous gold race and Richmond and was in the fight at Yellow Tavern, where Jeb Stuart fell. He was in the battle at Five Forks and carried Sheridan to Appomattox on the day of the surrender, standing under a tree in front of Mr. McLean's house while the articles were being prepared for Gen. Lee's signature. After the surrender he went to Texas with the general, and served through that campaign, saw service in Kansas during the Indian war of 1868-9, and then was given a pensioned stall in the general's stable at Chicago, where he lived in luxury until he died seven years ago. After his death he was stuffed, and to-day stands in the most honored object in the military museum on Governor's Island. "Winchester" was born and bred in Michigan of the best stock in the State.

Another horse of which Gen. Sheridan was very fond was a large gray mare which formerly belonged to Gen. Breckinridge's adjutant general and was captured at the battle of Missionary Ridge. He rode the mare in long marches, as she was a rapid walker and an easy riding animal. This horse was capable of harder service than any other he owned, and carried the general as easily as if he had been of a mother's weight. He was injured up in the Chicago fire in the stable of Colonel Wright, on the north side, on the night of the 9th of October, 1871. All of the Wright horses were burned, and the old gray among them.

When the general took the field in Missouri, he bought a chestnut gelding, which he rode exclusively in that State, and when in Tennessee he bought a beautiful black mare at Louisville while en route. The mare was the most beautiful animal he ever had, but was vicious and troublesome about camp. He rode her during all the Western campaigns, but on his way to join the army in Virginia, he left her at his mother's home in Somerset, O. There she was used for breeding purposes and his mother now owns one of her colts, but the mare got so vicious in her old age that she had to be disposed of, and was sold to an Ohio horseman.

During the entire war, Gen. Sheridan never wore but one sword, and he wears the same one yet on all occasions of display. It is a light, dragoon saber, and one of a cargo shipped from Spain to Charleston for the use of confederate officers. The vessel was captured in Charleston harbor by the Stockade, and the swords were distributed among the various arsenals of the North, at which they were sold to Union officers. The one which Sheridan wears was sent to the armory at St. Louis, and was purchased originally by the adjutant of the 2d Michigan cavalry, who wore it awhile and then presented it to Sheridan. The original scabbard was broken by having a horse fall upon it, and a new one was found to fit the blade. The general has a number of presentation swords which have been given him from time to time. Some of them are very valuable, and one, which was presented by the army of the Cumberland, is mounted with gold and diamonds. But it is too fancy for the general's taste, and nothing would induce him to wear it.

FACTS FOR THE GUIDANCE OF THE PUBLIC

IN THE SELECTION OF A FOOD PREPARATION—THE TRUE INTERPRETATION OF THE RESULTS OF THE ANALYSES MADE BY THE OHIO STATE OFFICIALS OF THE BAKING POWDERS—EX-COMMISSIONER HERST SPEAKS.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27, 1888

To the Public —

My attention has been called frequently of late to the Royal Baking Powder Company's perversion of the official analyses made by the Ohio Dairy and Food Commission of thirty brands of baking powder. I had previously seen their garbled, false, and misleading statements, however, and had published in the Ohio State Journal an article denouncing their statements and deductions as being most perversely false. I was at that time an officer of the State, however, and could go no further than simply to expose the falsity of their statements, and denounce their abuse, of an impartial official paper. Soon, thereafter, however, I resigned the commissionership to accept other responsible work.

I now observe that the Royal Company is causing the false and unfair statement to be published still more widely than ever in the local newspaper press as a paid advertisement—it being so worded as to appear as a sort of semi-official document. Against such a false showing—against such perfidy, duplicity and cupidity in perverting official paper, I protest; and now, as a citizen, free from the restraints of official impartiality, I feel free to give the true interpretation of the results of those analyses, as it reflects upon the relative merits of the several brands of powder analyzed by the Commission.

The Royal Baking Powder Company, in comparing the analyses of their powder with others as to the amount of gas produced, drops the Cleveland's out of the list (doubtless because that powder was proven to be richer in gas product, or in leavening power, than theirs), and compares their goods with the cheaper and inferior grades of baking powder. But in comparing as to residuum left in the bread they include the Cleveland brand. And here is their falsification most glaring. The slightly increased percentage of residuum in Cleveland's baking powder is due to the large amount of pure cream of tartar and bicarbonate of soda it contains, and, considered in connection with its richness of carbonic acid gas, the leavening agent (it contains the highest percentage of carbonic acid gas of all the cream of tartar baking powders), is another and very strong proof of its superiority to the Royal. It is the percentage of carbonic acid gas evolved by the baking powder in the process of bread making that determines the amount of baking powder residuum in the bread. The larger the percentage of carbonic acid gas in the baking powder, the less the residuum in the bread. Cleveland's baking powder contains more carbonic acid gas than the Royal, consequently, bread material leavened by Cleveland's baking powder contains less residuum than does bread material leavened by the Royal baking powder.

The State Chemist's analyses show the superiority of Cleveland's baking powder in four highest qualities, and excellence in two others, either in cream of tartar baking power.

1st —It is richer in cream of tartar.
2nd —It is richer in gas product, or leavening power.
3rd —From its use there is less residuum in the bread material.
4th —It does not contain any unhealthful or offensive ingredient—such as alum, ammonia, lime, &c. The Royal contains ammonia.

The analyses and comparison of the three highest brands of cream of tartar baking powder show that Cleveland's superior baking powder is the richest in cream of tartar, and richest in gas product or leavening power, and, having no unhealthful or impure element in it, it is absolutely the best and most desirable baking powder manufactured.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them.

THE RAISING OF FLOWERS

is a branch of horticulture in which muddiness and muckiness cannot indulge. But when the ruddy petals spangling the cheek specks an indisposition, the complexion can dispense with the use of SOZODONT for the removal of both defects.

Have no equal as a prompt and positive cure for sick headache, biliousness, constipation, pain in the side, and all kindred troubles. Carter's Little Liver Pills try them.

Must not be confounded with common cathartic or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

LOVE IN A COTTAGE.

"Chally," said Amaranthia Jane, "I reckon that your sperits recently seem to be bubbling over with happiness. I am glad to see it, but do tell me dear, what has caused it?" "Well," said Charley, as he confessed, her waist and imprinted a kiss on the waiting lips, "you know, for a while I was melancholy, blue as indigo and had no appetite, was bilious and dyspeptic, but the use of two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has brought me out and I am 'bright as a button.' I feel like a new man now Jane, name the day soon, there is more of this medicine at the drug store."

"WINE, WOMEN AND SONG,"

but the greatest of these is "Woman," "Wine is a mocker," and song is good to "sooth the savage," but women responds to every active power and sentiment of the human mind when in good health. But when afflicted with disease, you will find them tantalizing, coquettish, cross and hard to please. For all "sick headache, irregularities, nervousness and other diseases, Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the great world-famed remedy.

That tired feeling and loss of appetite are entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine. Try it and see.

For many years, through nearly every newspaper in the land, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, who are thoroughly responsible, financially, as any one can easily ascertain by proper inquiry, have offered, in good faith, a standing reward of $500 for a case of nasal catarrh, no matter how bad, or of how long standing, which they cannot cure.

Clevqland and the River and Harbor Bill

The readiness with which the Administration organs [illegible] self styled champions of purity in politics [illegible] formulate [illegible] President, offer is striking evidence of the fact that [illegible] constitutes the essential characteristic of the successful editor of a Cleveland organ. It is no [illegible] that the River and Harbor bill, the largest ever presented to Congress, was constructed on a basis of winning votes for the Administration's free trade policy. At the last session of Congress Mr. Cleveland vetoed the River and Harbor bill and his act was loudly applauded in the Administration organs as a courageous blow at a bad job. This year, however, a Presidential election is pending, a fact used by the committee to swell the grand total of their bill, but the New York Herald, Evening Post, Boston Post and other organs of a like stripe coolly announce that the chances are that the President will sign the bill when it reaches him without uttering a word of protest against such contemptible truckling for votes. No matter how often, or how radically Mr. Cleveland flops from one position to another he finds his organs closely at his heels. When he wrote his famous letter against a second term for President, it was caught up as the perfection of unselfish statesmanship, but now that he is pulling every possible wire to secure a renomination, the same organs smilingly swallow their past utterances and applaud him for his disinterested devotion to public duty. Should he sign the River and Harbor bill under the stress of political necessity and jobbery, after having vetoed a less objectionable bill from the last Congress, his champions will applaud just as vigorously as ever. In fact these political purists have resolved that the king can do no wrong, and that Cleveland is always right even when his later acts are in direct conflict with his own record in the past. Such is reform politics.

Riddling the Mills Bill

[Wash Cor N. Y. Tribune.]

The "Dark Lantern" bill was formally offered in the House Monday by "Premier" Mills, after it had been tinkered, to suit the Louisiana Democrats who insisted on the present classification. It was also agreed by the majority that the provision to place worsted and woollens on the same basis should go into effect July 1 instead of October 1, and that nothing in the bill should be construed to interfere with existing treaties.

The "Premier" left the chamber as soon as Major McKinley had offered the views of the minority. A few minutes later "Acting Premier" McMillin rose and gave notice that the bill will be called up on April 17. He remarked that the time had been set so far in advance in order to give the Appropriations Committee time to get its bills to the Senate, so that the Tariff bill would have unobstructed right of way. He did not thus admonish seven other committees which have appropriation bills in charge.

The first man to sign the views of the minority was William D. Kelley, who heartily approves every sentence in that document. Perhaps this [illegible] about [illegible] in the ranks of the minority. The free traders, who have been gleefully predicting that the minority would be unable to agree upon anything except perhaps [illegible] and glittering generalities, will be disappointed. They will read a document which abounds in [illegible] arguments [illegible] language, which bristles with facts and information stated with the greatest lucidity and particularity, which mercilessly exposes the partisan and sectional nature of the "Dark Lantern" bill, which proves that the framers of it have brought forward a part [illegible] conceived in iniquity [illegible] partisan juggle which, if successful, will be ruinous and destructive [illegible] industries [illegible] and worsted goods in general, which will cost [illegible] every fair minded American that the minority is right and the majority wrong. While the minority [illegible] considering the provisions to which its authors [illegible] subjected and [illegible] almost wholly devoid of parts [illegible] Historical facts [illegible] used [illegible] Republican [illegible] to [illegible] intelligent voters [illegible] with the [illegible] of the bill.

The responsibility for the present [illegible] placed [illegible] the Democratic majority of the House. The minority sought by conditions [illegible] the Committee on Ways and Means [illegible] this bill [illegible] in [illegible] committee [illegible] the White House and [illegible] as a last resort [illegible] substitute which will [illegible] impairment of the American system of protection.

Surely [illegible] enough [illegible] friend of the protective system. [illegible] the House [illegible] will stand.

The contrast of Republican with Democratic achievements in reducing the revenue in equal periods of time—eleven years—since 1867 is most striking. In the eleven years during which Republicans controlled the House the revenues were reduced $[illegible],701,663. In the eleven years of Democratic ascendancy the annual revenues were reduced $6[illegible]3 93.

The minority characterizes in language [illegible] the bill, which is rightly styled a radical reversal of the tariff policy of the country which has prevailed for the most part since the foundation of the Government. It is a searching and [illegible] analysis [illegible] finds that more than one third of the free list is made up from the products of the farm, the forest and the mine and other products which now pay dutiable rates ranging from seventy-five to [illegible] per cent. It is true that there are some exceptions. The duty on rice, for example, which is now [illegible] per cent is increased. The fact that Louisiana dutiable articles which are now on the free list, and many which it is proposed to place there is no [illegible] and the Canadian [illegible] Governor and Council to [illegible] the [illegible] together with the [illegible] for the benefit of the United States.

The minority assures the majority that the only danger that the "people are to be [illegible] Congress to wear cotton goods in the winter or go without and give bounties to wool growers and wool manufacturers" arises from the pending bill. The whole wool schedule is dissected and discredited. So with the flax, hemp and jute schedule, respecting which the minority shows that a grave injustice is proposed. One after the other the schedules are analyzed and explained, and the effect of the proposed reductions shown. The [illegible] Trust and its operations are explained and it is shown that since the suspension of the tin plate industry in the United States [illegible] consumers are compelled to pay from 40 to 80 per cent more than they did when a high [illegible] rate of duty fostered the domestic industry.

The minority is unable to understand why hemp [illegible] used in [illegible] cotton should be admitted free of duty, while when used for any other purpose it is dutiable at 1½ cents per pound. The minority [illegible] it is not an illustration of any principle of fair play or economic science why cotton should enjoy this extraordinary and exceptional favor.

The majority is reminded that if by a reduction of the duty on steel rails that industry shall be prostrated, one-half the domestic market for iron ores and pig iron will be destroyed.

The substitution of ad valorem for specific rates of duty is declared to be a "grant defect of the bill," that the late Secretary Manning is quoted in defence of that declaration. All through the report one finds that facts greatly outnumber theories.

The minority says that if it be the purpose of the majority to reduce the surplus it begs to remind them and that purpose will not be accomplished with the scaling down of duties as proposed. A number of examples are then mentioned to show that since the tariff was reduced in 1883 importations have increased so that the revenue is greater under the present low rate than it was under the former high rate.

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

The President Gets in his Veto.

WASHINGTON, April 4 The President sent a message to the House to-day, returning without approval, the bill for the relief of Nathaniel McKay and the executors of Donald McKay. The bill provides for reference to the Court of Claims of the demands of the beneficiaries named against the government on account of extra expense incurred in the construction of the iron-clad monitors Squando and Nausel and steamer Ashuelot, the construction of which began in 1863 and which were to be finished in six or eight months

The President to-day signed the commission of Medical Director John M. Brown, as Surveyor General of the Navy, vice Medical Director Gunnell He will to-morrow assume the duties of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery

FIFTIETH CONGRESS—First Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 4 On motion of Mr Sherman the Senate considered the bill to reimburse the depositors of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company for losses incurred by the company's failure When the bill was last before the Senate Mr Vest objected to the provision to pay "legal representatives" of the depositors Considerable debate ensued on the question of limiting the number of persons to whom claims should be paid

Mr Platt insisted on taking up the unfinished business, the Bond purchase bill, so the Freedmen's Bank bill went over without action

The Senate then resumed consideration of the Bond bill, the pending question being on Mr Beck's amendment

Mr Teller criticised the statement of Mr McPherson yesterday and the day before, in regard to silver, as to the country being, within sixty days, if the amendment should become a law, on a silver basis, with gold at a premium

The question being on Mr Beck's amendment, Mr Allison desired to offer an amendment to it to extend the time from thirty days to sixty days, but was informed by the presiding officer that Mr Beck's amendment was one in the second degree, being an amendment to substitute The question being taken, Mr Beck's amendment was agreed to yeas 37, nays 13

Mr Reagan offered an amendment directing the purchase and cancellation of bonds with $100,000,000 in gold now in the Treasury for the redemption of legal tender notes

Mr Farwell asked him whether he meant by his amendment to suspend specie payment, for that was the way he (Mr Farwell) understood it

Mr Reagan replied that the question had no application at all to his amendment He proceeded with an argument to show that the easiest, most direct and least injurious way to reduce the surplus was to adopt his amendment

Mr Beck said the bill with his amendment was ample provision to allow the [illegible] of the surplus in buying bonds and at the same time take care that the present volume of currency was not contracted He appealed to the Senator from Texas to withdraw his amendment [illegible] that he would have an opportunity to offer it to the bill for the lowering of certain [illegible] in the treasury

Mr Reagan relying on that assurance, withdrew his amendment

Mr Sherman moved to amend Mr Beck's amendment by substituting silver bullion for silver coin (over two millions monthly) The presiding officer ruled it out of order, as the Senate had already agreed to Mr Beck's amendment

Mr Sherman said he knew his amendment was not in order, but wanted to show that the Senate was forced to act upon a matter which had not been carefully examined by the committee The great distress spoken of by the Texas Senator (Mr Reagan) was due to the failure of the Democratic Administration to purchase bonds, and of the Democratic House to pass the McPherson bill allowing National Bank currency to be issued to the full amount of bonds deposited to secure circulation

Banks have been forced to reduce their circulation because they couldn't afford to deposit a bond representing a value of $130 for every $90 of currency issued, as the law required Since the Democratic Administration came in the National bank currency has been reduced $17[illegible],000,000 Banks had deposited in the Treasury $102,000,000 in United States notes, which was the only way they could reduce their circulation That amount was now tied up as the result of the faulty action of the House The Democratic policy has brought on the present financial distress The distress could be easily relieved by continuing the circulation of National banking system and removing the restrictions on issued National bank currency If there has been any contraction the Democratic majority was responsible

Mr McPherson moved to add to the bill, "provided that nothing in this act should authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to coin more than $4,000,000 worth per month the limit fixed in the act of Feb 28 1878

Mr Stewart moved to lay the amendment on the table

Without action the Senate adjourned

House

[illegible] All attempts at a compromise between the opposing factions failed The number of members having dwindled down to less than a quorum the Sergeant-at-Arms was sent out to pick up absentees The first victim was Mr Dougherty, of Florida, who begged off on the plea of having malaria, and was excused

THE RAILROAD STRIKE

The Rock Island's Charges Against the Burlington

CHICAGO, April 4 The managers of the Rock Island Road maintained in court this morning, before Judge Gresham, that notwithstanding the denials of the Burlington officials the Rock Island's charges were true that the Burlington has been trying, by rate wars and strikes, to force the formation of the great western railway trust. The Rock Island entered a motion that the whole matter be referred to a master, before whom testimony shall be taken, to establish the truth of the charges Voluntary affidavits will not be obtainable from some witnesses, the Rock Island asserted, in its papers accompanying the motion, and the object of reference of the case to a master was to put witnesses upon the task of examination and cross-examination. Leave was asked to get affidavits from some proposed witnesses who have suddenly left the immediate jurisdiction of the court.

Among these are Charles E. Perkins, President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, P. McArthur, Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and J. W. Midgeon, Chairman of the Southwestern Railway Association. The Rock Island's rejoinder in conclusion declares that yesterday's affidavit of Henry B Stow, General Manager of the Burlington, displays temper and recklessness in assertion, and denial which renders it eminently proper that he be subjected to a cross examination under circumstances which will compel him to frame his own answers instead of having them prepared for him by counsel.

ST. CATHERINE, Ont., April 4. The barn of A. Smith was burned this afternoon. Mrs. Smith, while endeavoring to rescue the cattle was burned to death.

TWO WATCHMEN SHOT.

One Killed and the Other Mortally Wounded and Dies Later.

CHICAGO, April 4. Eli D Kreigh and Dan Brasill, watchmen on the Chicago and Alton road, were shot last night, the former being instantly killed and the latter mortally wounded. For a time it was thought that the strikers might have been the assailants, but this theory was soon exploded Their business was to escort freight trains to the outer limits of the yards, keeping a lookout for thieves, who have given the railroads great trouble in the yards The conductor of the train says the watchman found three men on a car soon after the train pulled out They were ordered off and jumped to the ground Soon after, on going to the rear of the train, the watchman discovered the same men on the rear end of the caboose, and, incensed at their persistence, started to put them off

The conductor, who was close behind, heard two shots and saw Kreigh and Brasill fall to the floor of the caboose Hurrying to the rear door he saw a revolver pointed at him and slammed the door just as a shot was fired The train was stopped as soon as possible and the police notified but no trace of the tramps could be found Brasill died this morning A man with a much battered face was arrested in the vicinity of the tragedy to-day on suspicion of being one of the murderers He refused to give his name

WELL DONE LITTLE RHODY!

The Republicans Make a Clean Sweep.

A Complete Turn Over From Last Year.

PROVIDENCE, R I, April 4 The State election to-day went Republican by about 1,600 on the general ticket and a clean sweep of the Legislature, the Republicans capturing this city with the Representatives and Senator and about twenty-five of the other thirty-five towns Pawtucket has not been heard from on the Assembly ticket, and Newport succeeded in electing the only Senator by the Democrats, filling of election of five Representatives Both cities, however, endorsed the Republican gubernatorial ticket The proposed amendment to the Constitution abolishing the real estate qualification for foreign born voters will probably not get the necessary two-thirds vote.

It is thought now that several, if not all the Assembly [illegible] of this city failed of an election Nothing but the official count can surely decide The Republican majority in the Assembly will still be good, even without them

Last year the Democrats carried the State by the following vote For Governor Davis, Democrat, 373 majority Attorney General, Slocum, Democrat, 2,513 majority, Treasurer, Perry, Democrat, 2,600 majority No choice for Lieut Governor or Secretary of State Senate, Democrats 18, Republicans, 20, House, Democrats 41, Republicans 29, Prohibitionists 2, no choice, 1

MOTOR CIRCUIT SYSTEM The electric light company is thinking of adding to its already efficient service by putting in a motor circuit about the city so that all who wish may have their machinery driven by electricity Mr H C Spaulding of Boston of the Thomson-Houston Electric Company is in the city making a canvass of the different establishments which would be likely to adopt this method of motive force and feeling what encouragement will be given the introduction of the system Motive power can be obtained in any place by means of the motor which is in connection with the station by wire and the apparatus requires practically no attention Motors are now in use with much success in Haverhill, Lowell, Providence, New Haven and many other places If sufficient encouragement is given the company will have the motor circuit in operation by May 1st

UNCLAIMED BODY The corpse of Mrs D W Barker, as the certificate indicated, who died at Petrolia, Pa, was received at the American Express Company's office in this city last Sunday morning, and as yet nobody has appeared to take charge of it The coffin is hermetically sealed and is marked in the care of Mr N A Dickinson No such person has appeared and as yet the efforts of the Express officials have failed to discover any body of that name They have telegraphed and telephoned in all directions since the receival of the corpse but have received no answer as to the right person The officials think that a mistake might have been made in the direction of the box, and that the name Nickerson should have been the person who was to take charge of the remains They have got trace of a gentleman of that name and will see at once if he is the person meant

ON THE WAR PATH. An incipient riot occurred yesterday between twelve and one o'clock at the Old Nick's Half Acre, and for a short time matters were very lively about that well known resort. It seems that "Jackenny" Welch, so called, was feeling very frisky and got into a row with some of his companions in a saloon While one of them was trying to get him home out of harm's way, Officer Davis appeared upon the scene and attempted to take the festive "Jackenney" to the Columbia street incubator, but the latter did not care to visit the place and resisted most ferociously. A large crowd had collected upon the scene and the officer had considerable difficulty in making his way through, it with his prisoner whom he finally subdued Notwithstanding the odds against which he labored he took his man to the station and locked him up. The officer's wrist was somewhat hurt in the scuffle but otherwise he was uninjured. Jackenny got into the wrong hands when he met Officer Davis.

One of his fellow workmen called his attention from his work for a moment, and in turning he brought his right hand upon the saw His thumb and three of his fingers were cut in a terrible manner, the sharp saw going completely through them He was taken as soon as possible to a physician's office where the fingers, which were only hanging by the skin were amputated and the wounds dressed The second finger was badly cut but the physicians did not amputate it and hope to save it It was a very unfortunate accident and Mr Batchelder will be unable to do any work for some time

CECILIA CLUB FESTIVAL

The second day of the musical festival being given by the Cecilia Club was as anticipated, a fulfilment of the promise of the opening inaugurated by the concert on Tuesday evening, and that much interest and appreciation is being manifested by our people in this event was shown by the large audience which filled City Hall yesterday at both matinee and concert The best efforts of the club have been put forth to give the people of this city a series of concerts which should be of the best in every particular, and that success has attended this movement is vouched for by each person who has attended the festival thus far That the club deserves much greater patronage, even than it has received, is not to be doubted for a moment, for a series of very fine concerts has been arranged at which most excellent talent participates

EVENING CONCERT.

A very large audience made up of music loving people, of whom there are many in this city assembled at the hall in the evening with anticipations of a brilliant musical event as the concert was to be given by the celebrated Beethoven Club, of Boston and Mrs W F Shaw of this city It is needless to state that with this distinguished talent the occasion was one of the deepest enjoyment The programme was most excellently made up, and the delicious notes of both singers and players floated upon the ear of the listener to his or her very great enjoyment It was a gala night for the real lover of music and one not soon to be forgotten The following was the programme

1	Overture Semiramide,	Rossini
2	Song, Polonaise Mignon, Mrs W F Shaw	Thomas
3	Ballet Music from Rosamund (a) Andantino (b) Andante un poco assai	Schubert
4	Violoncello Solo, (a) Romanza (b) Capriccio Mr Wulf Fries,	De Swert Goltermann
5	Canzonetta from Quartette, op 12	Mendelssohn

8	Fantasie for Violin Faust Mr Charles N. Allen	Gounod Alard
9	Music of the Spheres op 17, No 2	Rubinstein
10	Operatic Selection, Romeo and Juliet,	Gounod

Mrs. Shaw was never in better voice than last night, and rendered her songs with the most charming grace and finish The excellent range, power and sweetness of her tones were splendidly set forth and her execution was most pleasing. The intricate and difficult passages of her songs were very skillfully executed and Mrs. Shaw's reputation as one of the best of singers in this vicinity was never more firmly established than last evening. Each of her selections received an encore, and the recalls were certainly most deservedly won. She responded with pleasing selections in both cases.

Miss Nellie Sweet played Mrs. Shaw's accompaniments very pleasingly.

The selections of the Beethoven Club were a rare treat, and its equal is seldom offered our people. The club is made up of finished musicians, the majority of whom have been in the front rank for very many years. The impression made by their playing is that they are thoroughly trained artists in sympathy with the music before them Their playing is exact, smooth, brilliant, delicious, and executed with the feeling that shows the true artist The shading and refined delicacy of their music made the deepest impression upon the listeners who heard it with rapt attention Their selections were of the highest order of music and their performance exquisite. The appreciation of the audience was shown by the stillness which prevailed during the rendition of the selections and the prolonged applause at their completion Nearly every number was encored and responded to

The violoncello solo by Mr Wulf Fries was one of the best features of the programme, and it was given with most charming delicacy and brilliancy The instrument in his hands was made to speak and the intense interest of the listeners found expression in hearty applause at the conclusion of the selection He was obliged to respond to a highly merited encore It will be of interest to many to know that Mr Fries played in this city forty years ago with the club of which the first Beethoven Club is an outcome, and of which he is the only surviving member Mr Allen [illegible] demonstrated his ability as a most skillful musician by his splendid performance upon the violin in his solo He played with consummate expression and power, and as he [illegible] the listeners who sat and [illegible] without thinking how the moments were slipping by His selection was received with the hearty applause that it deserved and the audience would not be satisfied until he had given another one of his delightful [illegible]

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the Beethoven Club will give their concluding splendid performance is assured The programme will include selections by the club [illegible] by Mr Van Santvoord Mr Fries and Mr Allen

In the evening the closing concert will be given The Cecilia Club will present The Golden Legend with Andrews orchestra and there will be a short programme [illegible] music It will be a [illegible] [illegible]

Canadian Pacific Railroad

The Canadian Pacific railroad contractors have decided to build all of the bridges for the extension of the road of iron instead of wood It was at first intended and the orders for the iron work will soon be sent to the manufacturers It has been found that it will cost much more to build the road than was anticipated mainly on account of the rocky condition of the country through which the road is to run Ledges and hard till abound on the line and to make the proper level much blasting and digging have to be done This is difficult and slow work and good progress is greatly retarded by the necessity of the conditions Crews of men have been at work all winter in the cuts but the snow has interfered very much with their operations, which have gone on but slowly

Very large crews are to be put on this summer and the contractors now have men in this city Boston, New York, and other places looking up workmen About sixty men have gone from this city in the last few days and 200 skilled workmen who have been at work on the Baltimore and Ohio road are expected soon to join the crews at the scene of operations Probably, many of the Italians who left their work when winter began on account of the climate to which they were not accustomed and others who severed connections owing to a disagreement as to wages will be prevailed upon to go back and labor during the summer

The contractors say that they intend to have the rails all laid by the coming November, and provided there is no delay in getting the iron work for the bridges, that the road will be completed at the end of December It is reported that most of the contractors and sub-contractors are not making much money out of their contracts on account of the unforeseen expensiveness of the work The contractors purchase large amounts of clothing, provisions, utensils, etc., in this city, and are frequently seen here on their business trips

Washington Society

In a society article making mention of the families of Senators and Representatives who served the country in the late war, the Washington National Tribune says

Capt. and Mrs. Boutelle have now been married 21 years. She has a very sunny face and cheery manner Her complexion is very fresh in its coloring, and appears the more so by contrast with her prematurely gray hair Her figure is plump and compact. Anyone meeting her, even casually, is inspired with confidence in her as one who is sincere, earnest, and kindly disposed towards others

Agricultural and Household Matters.

The Penobscot County Farmers' Club held a regular meeting at Grange Hall, Six Mile Falls Dist Bangor, on Saturday last. The subject of establishing a corn factory will be the topic of discussion. It is expected the meeting will be of unusual interest and that large numbers will be present. The Maine Farmer of last week has this to say in reference to the matter:

"Penobscot county farmers, through the influence of the well attended institutes held by the State Board of Agriculture, and the efficient work of its County Farmers' Club are fast waking up to the importance of putting some business into their farming affairs.

The farmers about the city of Bangor are making quite a movement for a corn factory to be erected in that city. The necessary number of acres of corn have already been pledged and what they desire now is for some to come forward who is experienced in the action, and erect such a factory. Such extensive farmers as Hiram Smith, Charles York & O. Bean and a score of smaller ones will back the enterprise, and there will be no lack either of corn or of corn. Bangor offers excellent inducements for such an establishment. It is centrally located and freight can be had cheaper than from any other place in Maine except Portland. Their railroads direct to New York and Boston and good rail connection. Many people besides the farmers would be glad to see something in this direction. It is to our sense however for Bangor to look to all its interests, and not to industries of somebody there by this time ought to have built enough of vessels out of the immense lumber enterprises outside of logs and lumber.

The town of Corinth [illegible] a factory and is doing a [illegible] business, and the establishment of which seems probable. A butter factory has also started up with a good deal of success. Other towns are all ought to [illegible] and [illegible] enterprises. Corinth is [illegible] factory assured.
